What is Applied Learning?

Students apply what they have learnt by utilising the learning cycle of doing, experiencing, reflecting and relating new knowledge and skills to the real world.

Catering for individual student needs, using authentic materials and resources drawn from everyday life rather than mass-produced textbooks or materials.

Utilising the experience and knowledge of community members including employers, cultural and community leaders and former students.

Learning reflects the integration that occurs in real-life tasks, incorporating skills and knowledge relevant to the whole task and the whole person such as collaboration, communication, problem solving and interpersonal skills.

Presenting learning activities in different modalities: visual, auditory and kinaesthetic, to allow the greatest uptake of knowledge.
